Previous Landing Pages

Original Design

In the first design, the landing page had Sensations' promotional video in the background. Although it was a high-quality video, it did not fit best within the landing page, as it did not provide a clear call to action.

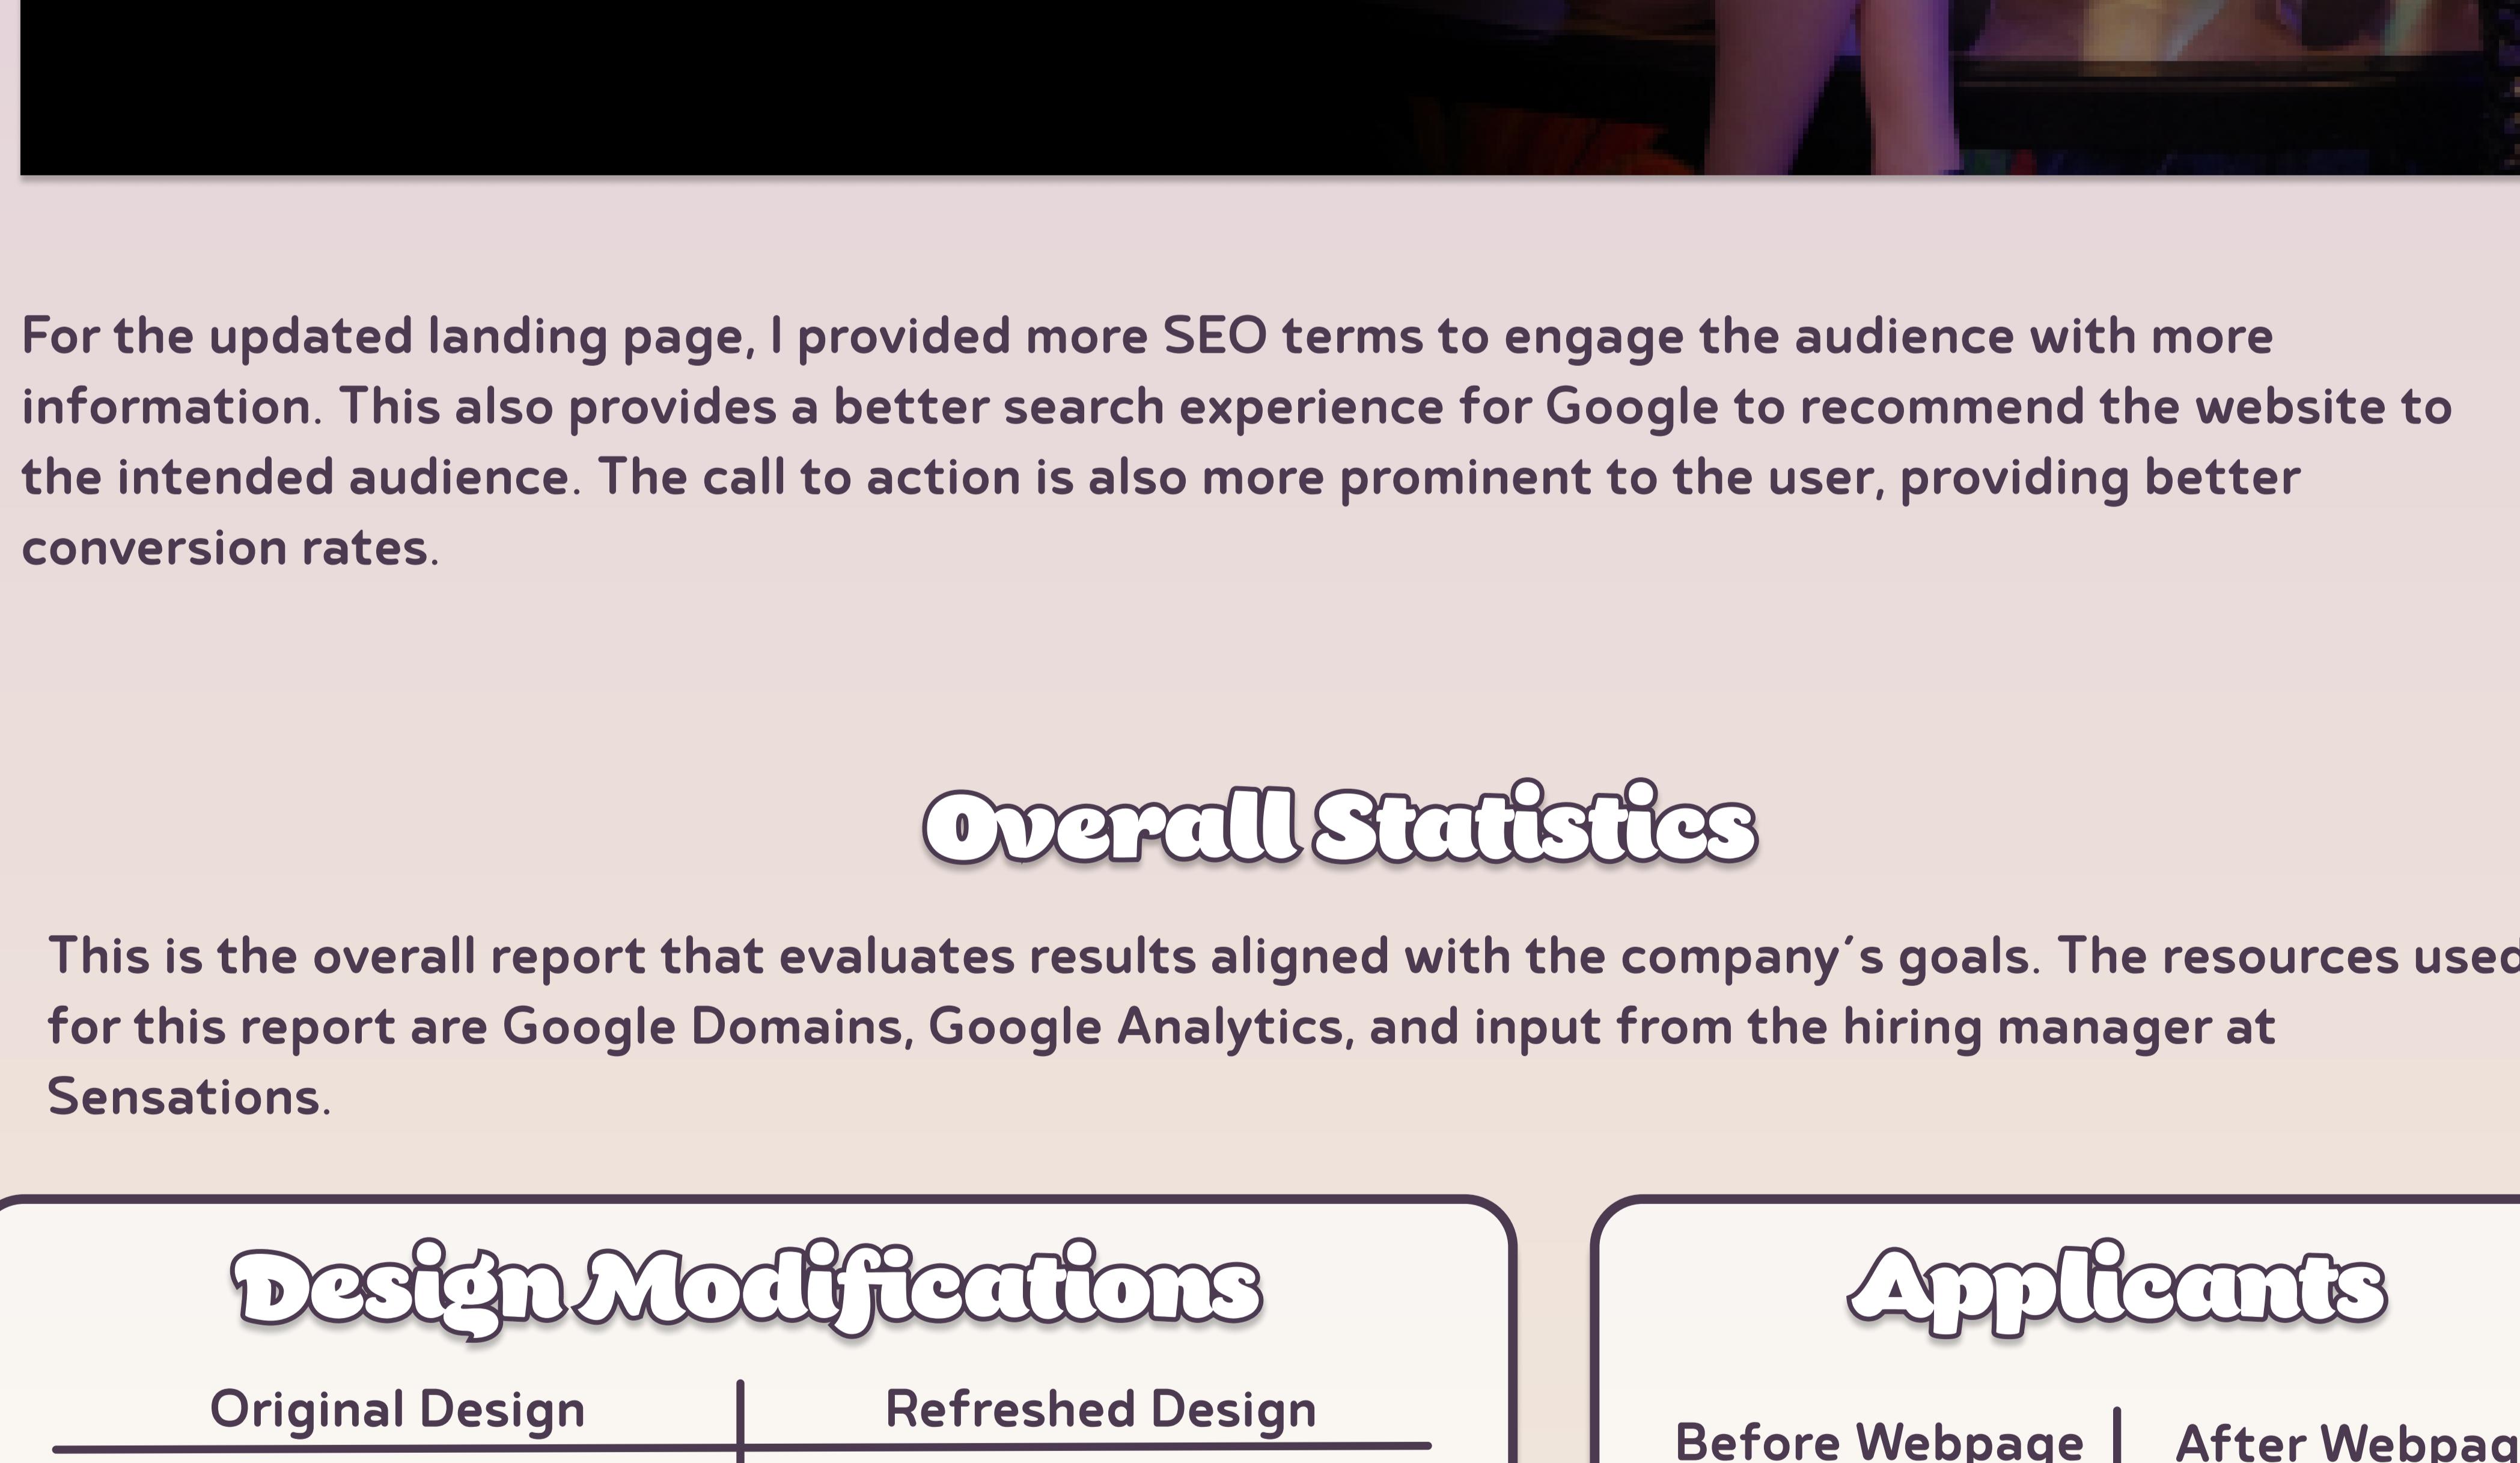

Additionally, I lacked sufficient content to structure the site to its full potential.

Refreshed Design

After obtaining more content for the website, I redesigned and developed the entire website. Although this landing page provided a simple, clean look, it did not result in a good amount of conversion rates.

Landing Page for SEO Optimization

For the updated landing page, I provided more SEO terms to engage the audience with more information. This also provides a better search experience for Google to recommend the website to the intended audience. The call to action is also more prominent to the user, providing better conversion rates.
